Baptist Men's LeagueEntertained At Closing
Session By Talented Reader
—Bowden Re-elected

Mrs. Pauline Graham Talbot of Rockland provided the principal entertainment feature of the final meeting of the season of the Baptist Men's League in the church parlors last night.

Mrs. Talbot, introduced by President Raymond D. Bowden, gave a reading of the one-act play, "His Honor the Mayor," by Orson Wells, interpreting perfectly the play which shows the right of American people to free assemblage. Mayor Knaggs of a small Texas community, although not agreeing with the purpose and aims of a meeting to be held by the White Crusaders, protects the members of the organization from mob violence and allows them to carry out their plans.

As an encore, Mrs. Talbot read a portion of "Long Live the King," by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Mrs. Talbot was vigorously applauded.

Sixty-five members of the league, including their ladies, enjoyed a beef supper, topped off with strawberry shortcake, provided by The Jolly Eight, with six of their members present; Mrs. Corris Randall, Mrs. Elvie Wooster, Mrs. Helen McKinney, Mrs. Margaret Adams, Mrs. Ruby Sewall and Mrs. Beulah Wotton.

Herman M. Hart, secretary, read a report of the April meeting; also the annual report, showing that eight meetings had been held, with distinguished speakers at each meeting. The average attendance was shown as 40, with $64 in dues collected and three new members admitted. Osmond A. Palmer, treasurer, reported that there was a balance on hand of $28.01 as compared with $3.04 at the end of last year.

Mr. Palmer led the singing of "America," with Miss Charlotte Cook at the piano, and Miss Cook played "The Lost Chord." A happy feature of the meeting was the presentation of a birthday cake to Frank A. Winslow, long time member of the league, whose birthday coincided with the day of the meeting. Mr. Winslow responded in an appreciative vein, praising the league for its continuation as a strong organization of the First Baptist Church and hoping for many years of service for the organization which was formed in 1907.

Rev. J. C. MacDonald, reporting for the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers for 1944-1945. This was accepted and the same officers were reelected: Raymond D. Bowden, president; Everett S. Blethen and Joseph E. Blaisdell, vice presidents; Herman M. Hart, secretary; Osmond A. Palmer, treasurer; and Sidney H. Pierce, auditor. —By R. S. S.

at the Augusta House. Douglas Fossdick, editor of the Rumford Falls Times, was elected president, succeeding Asa Wasgatt of Bar Harbor, and the other officers are: Lionel Foster, Skowhegan, vice president; Anne Hinckley, Waldo; and secretary and Ora L. Evans of Dover-Foxcroft, treasurer. To the executive board were appointed Paul K. Niven of Brunswick, Alton Crane of Belfast and Bernard E. Estes of Houlton. John M. Richardson of Rockland heads the legislative committee.

The session took the form of a panel discussion due to the many problems confronting every weekly in the State under war-time conditions. It was felt that more of value could be obtained by this method than by the usual speaking program.

The session was conducted as a clinic with Mr. Richardson presiding. The present and future problems of the country newspaper were considered and views on each problem discussed. The civic responsibility of each paper in these times of stress was recognized and plans laid for member papers to take even a heavier share of community leadership.

Howard A. Keyo spoke briefly on matters connected with OPA and the association voted to co-operate on an educational program.

It was voted to meet four times annually in place of the customary single meeting, these sessions to be more or less regional to aid in attendance during rationing of gasoline.

patrol sent out from the reconnaissance troop of a Fifth Army infantry division. Two of the patrol were wounded, one of the casualties was evacuated, while Sergeant Crabtree remained with the other, who couldn't be moved without a litter.

"He was wounded in the chest and back and had trouble breathing," the sergeant said. "I poured sulfanilamide powder from my first aid packet into the wounds but couldn't apply a bandage.

"The ground was wet and cold, so I put a parka around him and laid down beside him to keep him as warm as possible and prevent shock. We were there for hours, and I thought the rescue party never would come. Finally, just as it began to get light, I saw them coming up the road. I was never happier to see anyone in my life."

The wounded man was evacuated to an aid station and is recovering.

Rev. Roy A. Welker, minister of the Congregational Church, will be Memorial Day speaker at exercises to be held at Grand Army Hall lot.

Mrs. Walter Ladd and Mrs. H. P. Blodgett were in Portland Monday and Tuesday attending the Women's Auxiliary of Episcopal Diocese of Maine at which time Mrs. Keryn ap Rice of Rockland, chosen president for the ensuing three years. The Chinese Bishop Rt. Rev. Y. Y. Tsu, Ph.D. Bishop of Kunning, China, told the Auxiliary at its annual convention meeting in the Cathedral Church of St. Luke's that "the church in China is actually progressing in time of great difficulty and a big missionary expansion is now going on." He stressed the need of "parish builders" in his great country. The Fall meeting of this auxiliary is to be held in Rockland. Also from Rockland were Mrs. Gilmore Scule, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. M. A. Rice, Mrs. H. H. Bradley, Mrs. George Avery.

Rockland High and Camden High baseball warriors fight it out at Community Park this afternoon at 3:30. In their first game, played in Camden, the home team won by a single score. "Let's see you do it again," say Coach Flanagan's boys.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

"Paper bags are in great demand, in spite of the shortage," writes Hazel N. Lane of Rockport. "For what? Dandelion greens, of course. The sign of the digger is the paper bag and a knife. Some weeks ago the champions had their first 'messes.' Times or seasons have changed for one declared that she used to have her first 'mess' on April Fool's Day. They know when and where to look as the season advances. They are always ahead of the children and the others who are now afield.

"The dandelion should be our symbol of democracy. It has no respect for persons or estates. It grows where it will, and few are the landowners who grudge the claim of the first comers for greens. I have seen a busy digger on the Court House lawn. Why not? Surely the lawn and the dandelions thereon belong to us all. Some one who digs and who delights in the bitter taste of the 'green' should tell you the rest of the story from another point of view."

At a baseball game in Camden the other day I chatted with the Magee boys—Cornelius F and Forrest C, who were making baseball history in Camden nearly a score of years ago. Always liked them—partly for their own sake, and partly because of their father, the late Frank A. Magee, formerly of Rockland, who was one of my best friends, and who was scorer of the ball games while I was playing on the Rockland team. Among my happy memories are two trips we made to Quebec and Montreal ever so many years ago. I remember that among other diversions we "passed ball" on Dufferin Terrace, eyed curiously by young men passing with lacrosse clubs in their hands.

Under a Pleasant Point date line of May 17, the correspondent, Mrs. Fannie Davis, writes: There is plenty of ice on Gay Island if you go to the right place. It is about 4 or 5 inches thick. Good to make ice cream these warm days—if you have any sugar."

Readers of this column who resided in Rockland in the early Nineties will read with special interest today's letter by "Ime Forgotten," in which the author tells how a majority of the members of the class of '94 "walked out" when one of its popular members was expelled. Tells, also how diplomas were eventually awarded to those who had quit school. I am wondering if Ime Forgotten has also forgotten that the belated award of diplomas was the result of a precedent established when a similar award was made in the case of a young man who had been expelled from the class of 1890.

Not only has Spring come, but with it Fall. So thought Carl W. Sewall of 11 Knowlton street when he dug in his garden the other day and unearthed a potato which had withstood Winter's freezes without injury to its complexion.

"K.S.F." and I are in full accord as to the merits of the Baltimore Oriole, one of the handsomest feathered creatures which visits this climate. Just as the swallows arrive on a specific day at Capistrano, so do the Baltimore Orioles come to Rockland, their arrival here being May 17, according to K.S.F. who minds the difference in their song notes on the day of their arrival and after they have been here a short time.

One year ago: The sub-committee on Naval Affairs visited the Ash Point Naval Station—Frank H. Wilbur, former school principal and ball player, died in Camden aged 85 years—James A. Moore was elected president of the Knox County Camera Club—Among the deaths: Rockland, Mrs. James H. Lawrence, 76; Warren, Mrs. Samuel E. Tarr, 67; Rockland, Mrs. J. F. McDonald, 80.

THESE THINGS ENDURE

When, in the cloisters of unsullied thought, I ponder on those things that still endure Amid a world that totters, insecure, I think upon the things that God hath wrought: Things which man's money neither sold nor bought— Things above price, in essence holy, pure, Which bear no tarnish of earth's base allure— Free—given to all who ever truly sought. The gifts of Faith, and Hope, and Charity, Which none but Life's Creator could conceive To shed as boons on all who but believe In His Son's way of immortality: These mook man's strivings—future, present, past— Since they bespeak all things that truly last. —Ernest Ballantyne

Book Review

The New Moon and Other Poems. Author, Alice M. P. Lanigan. Marshall Jones Co., Publishers, Francetown, N. H.

This author's poetry is of the flowerings which have resulted from the transplanting of the Celtic stock to the granite-streaked soil of New England. Miss Lanigan is of Boston birth.

Near her home Miles Standish trundled the Pilgrim harvest to the mill on the banks of the Neponset River near her home. With literature her hobby, Alice Lanigan took as her vocation, music and poetry. She draws on near and dear territory familiar to her in her poems.

She has given in some of her verses deep in religious thought, in others gentle whimsy, and with fine skill she holds the poetry in beauty of meditation, through her various subjects. It would be hard to pick a favorite so many have touches of heart's pricks and beauty. She is a nature student and life gives her much for contemplation in all her work. Quite above the average I find her work.

How Rural Religious Education Is Going Forward In Knox County

The annual meeting of the Knox County Association for Rural Religious Education was held Monday in the Rockland Congregational Church. The devotional service included songs by a group from South Hope led by Mrs. Robbins. Later in the meeting a Camden group made a similar contribution.

The reports of officers revealed a budget increase of at least 25%, with funds received having failed to quite keep pace with this increased cost. Just a bit more from the many who give and a little from some newly interested members would comfortably solve the financial problems, and any interest devoted to this effort to encourage our rural population in constructive Christian living will be twice blessed.

A very attractive display of scrapbooks was made by the several schools in response to the subject, "What Helps and What Hinders Our Country." The "Blue Ribbon" book of this display was made by the Rockville school, grades 1-4 and sub-primary, with Miss Mildred Gould, teacher.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. Melvin H. Dorr, Jr.; vice president, Rev. H. P. Leach; secretary, J. E. Bradstreet; treasurer, Herman M. Hart; financial secretary, C. Clifton Lufkin; auditor, Harold S. Leach.

[EDITORIAL]

The sphynx who presides over the country's destinies in Washington is being handed the presidential nomination on a silver platter, just as another sphynx in Albany is to be handed the Republican nomination in Chicago next month. What either sphynx will say to the unsought honor is still a matter of conjecture although both answers will probably be in the affirmative. The difference seems to be that while a majority of the Democrats have unbounded faith in the present incumbent the movement for his fourth nomination undoubtedly had its origin with the great multitude of government officials who would owe their continuation in office to the reelection of Franklin D. Roosevelt. They are naturally working for "Number One." The President is as good as renominated, and when he breaks the silence with his acceptance it will be coupled with a dictator's choice of a candidate for vice president. Paraphrasing the famous statement made by President Coolidge when he declined a third nomination, President Roosevelt may say: "I do not choose not to run."

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, to whom the Republican nomination is coming like an avalanche, in spite of his continued denial that he is a candidate, has had no build-up for that honor except for the tremendous outpouring of popular sentiment from ocean to ocean, and from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico—a tide that has proven irresistible despite the fact that the so-called political bosses have turned the cold shoulder to the man who has so steadfastly shown that he has a mind of his own. Gov. Dewey does not yet have (or rather his supporters do not have) the required number of delegates, and it is still possible for bosses to get in their deadly work, but if Dewey is not the next Republican candidate for President, great will be our surprise.

ROCKLAND'S WEEK OF MUSIC

When the Maine Federation of Music Clubs holds its annual convention in Rockland next Thursday and Friday proper recognition will have been bestowed upon a city which has always been justly proud of its musical culture. Older residents never discuss the subject without harking back to the days of the Maine Music festival, to Director William R. Chapman and to the splendid chorus always contributed by Wight Philharmonic Society. Able leaders like the late James Wight have gone to their reward but the community's love for classical music has never been permitted to wane. Rockland will entertain next week's visitors with the cordiality and grace always shown here and the sponsoring Kumbstein Club's efforts should be roundly seconded by the people at large.

FACING SHIPYARD EXODUS

Decreasing payrolls in Knox County shipyards sound a note of warning which everybody will do well to heed. Unless the Government waves another magic wand and provides contracts not now foreseen, probably not less than 1500 men will be forced to seek new employment. This burden, of course, is not going to fall entirely upon Rockland and Camden, for of the 2300, or more, workers who have been provided with lucrative employment the past two years a very considerable percentage resides in other towns and other counties. The best that can be hoped for, outside of, possible new contracts, is the continuation of the two yards on a greatly reduced scale. The surplus men who left long-held positions to accept shipyard wages will be left to face problems not easily solved.

WOULD DRAFT WOMEN

Representative Celler despairing of the passage of the national service act, would amend the selective service law to permit the drafting of unmarried women between ages twenty and thirty-one into the women's military services. He will introduce this legislation, he says, only if the rate of enlistment gives no promise of filling the ranks of the Women's Army Corps. Since a recent intensified publicity campaign (including Mr. Celler's notes, pictures of attractive summer uniforms) has brought the corps up to only 70,000 whereas 200,000 are authorized and needed, there is little prospect that voluntary enlistment will do the job.

We see no more objection to drafting young women than to drafting young men for military service, if military needs require it. It seems clear, however, that the proposed national service act, which would face women with a choice between civilian and military service, would make a military draft unnecessary. But that measure is unacceptable to those who consider it fair to draft certain age groups for the jobs which entail danger, hardship, military discipline the low pay, but unfair to draft all others for services which entail no danger, no comparable hardships and which pay far better. To those who reason in this fashion, Mr. Celler's proposal may be no more acceptable, since the danger to women in the military services is less than to men and the justification for singling them out for coercion is therefore less.

Mr. Celler's proposal, based on the failure of enlistments, once more accents the fact that a system whereby a few are asked to volunteer for unusual sacrifices when no doubt whatever is required of others does not work. And we doubt that it would work if the W. A. C. uniform made every woman look like a Hollywood star. If we are to have a full quota of needed W. A. C.'s Congress may choose between drafting the few, as Mr. Celler proposes, or imposing responsibility for war-time service on all.—Herald Tribune.

Washington And You

By Margaret Chase Smith

The Director of Construction for the Veterans Administration tells me that extension of the medical and surgical building at Togus Veterans Facility is not necessary at this time. I have been urging that two wings be added, so that most Maine veterans could be taken care of at Togus. I also asked for construction of a tuberculosis hospital at Togus.

The Director says that the present accommodations for medical and surgical cases are adequate, that the largest demand is for neuro-psychiatric facilities, that we have enough tuberculosis construction underway in this general area to take care of the probable demand.

Going into detail he says that there was such small demand for domiciliary beds throughout the country, and so urgent a need for beds for neuro-psychiatric patients that some domiciliary facilities, including Togus, were converted for neuro-psychiatric patients. This was done he said, after a very careful study of requirements in New England. Allocations in domiciliary quarters at Togus are now underway to make them suitable for neuro-psychiatric.

The Bureau says the program provides enough general medical and surgical beds in the main hospital for anticipated needs, also that the Veterans Administration, several months ago, adopted a program of expansion of facilities in our general area at Rutland Height Massachusetts, Castle Point, and Sunnunt, New York. He says that the remodeling program will be finished soon, and then there will be enough beds for tuberculosis patients in this general area.

This is not satisfactory to me despite my respect for the experience and judgement of the Administration. The human factor of keeping patients near enough so that their families can see them, of being in their home State, is in my opinion very important. I would like to see Maine Veterans taken care of in Maine so far as possible. Togus has the water and sewage connections, and a most suitable location for a complete, well-rounded facility and I shall keep this view before the Administration. I have always been interested in possibility of making sheep-raising a major activity in Maine, and was delighted when S. F. Dorrance, Livestock Specialist of the Maine Department of Agriculture, wrote to ask for copies of a Government bulletin on sheep-raising for beginners. He says there is a lot of interest in the State about raising sheep and that this is an excellent bulletin. I talked with Gov. Sewall about this some time ago. Believe he has had this subject in mind in post-war planning.

Blueberry Hazard

Blackened Line Cut Worm Doing Tremendous Damage In Spots

The blackened line cut worm has been found in many blueberry fields of the county and reports received from growers indicate that a great deal of damage has been done. The worm eats the blossoms and the amount of damage runs from 25% to 90%.

If the worms have not been found in a field but are in neighboring areas, poison bran mash can be used to keep them in check. This is made as follows: 20 lbs. bran or cow feed, 1 lb. Paris Green or 2 lbs. arsenate of lead and 1 quart of mollasses. Oranges, lemon or grapefruit mixed with the material makes the bait more attractive. Should the worm be found scattered over the whole field a dust of copper lime arsenate may be used at the rate of about 8 to 10 lbs. per acre.

Every grower should protect his fields to determine the amount of damage and follow one of the above control methods.

Only Three Concerns

Still In Business Here Out Of Long List Published 58 Years Ago

Gerald Margeson has The Courier-Gazette's thanks for a copy of "The Revellie," a little newspaper published in connection with the Grand Army Fair which was being held in 1886. The program included the thrilling drama "The Ocean Waif," the participants in which were J. Howard, E. Spear, J. Donohue, H. Burkmar, E. J. Clifton, John Cables, A. J. Tolman, Miss Anna Coughlin, Miss Clark, Mrs. Adams and Miss Bass. The first passenger train over the Knox Lincoln extension was to land at the new depot on the day the fair opened.

"The Revellie" carried the advertisements of many of Rockland's merchants and professional men of that period. Just to show how times have changed the list is here printed:

Joseph Abbott, Robinson & Powell, J. W. Anderson, Rockland Steam Mill, Keene's Variety Store, Robinson & Edgerton, C. C. Cross, Sullivan & Blackington, A. F. Crockett & Co., Eph. Perry, O. E. Hahn & Co., T. J. St. Clair, O. S. Andrews, W. H. Kittredge, J. P. Wise & Sons, C. E. Burpee, Fairbank & Spear, C. Cochran & Lowell, Berry Bros., J. G. Pottle, Bicknell Tea Co., Moulton's Laundry, J. H. Wiggins, W. F. Norcross & Co., Herbert Lovejoy, R. Fred Crie & Co., John Ackerman, Frank C. Knight & Co., A. J. Erskine, Rice & Hall, J. G. Torrey & Son, J. Denouhe & Co.

Boston Clothing Store, C. E. Havener, W. O. Hewett & Co., F. G. Smith & Co., Burpee's Drug Store, M. H. Nash, W. J. Coakley, W. A. McLean, C. M. Walker, R. H. Burnham, Combs Oyster House, Spear & May, A. J. Bird & Co., C. H. Pendleton, J. H. Flint, Brown's Cigar Factory, Miss L. Etta Philbrook, Wm. M. Monroe, J. McDougall.

G. A. Safford, Samuel M. Veazie, Sullivan Brothers, Mrs. F. E. Allen, C. E. Littlefield, Bodwell Granite Co., H. C. Chapman, Smith's Studio, C. F. Sauelle, T. E. Tibbets, Smith's Music Store, A. B. Crockett, Ulmer & Orleton, C. Doherty, Lindsey House, Rockland Shoe Store.

Going through the above list one finds just three concerns which are still doing business—Senter Crane, successor to W. O. Hewett & Co., Chisholm Bros., successors to W. A. McLean, and Flint's Market, successor to J. H. Flint.

What a change in 58 years!

Mr. Smith Has The Floor

In the midst of a heated town meeting argument over assessments for a proposed highway, folks might easily get excited and shout down Jim Smith who's got the floor. But New England town meetings aren't run that way. Emotions are held in check by the town moderator, whose job it is to make sure that every man and woman has a chance to say what he thinks, and be heard.

The same democratic ideals inherent in the New England town meeting govern the policy of our newspapers. Our editors, like those of other Maine newspapers, make sure that all sides of every question are honestly represented.

In time of war when emotions run high their task is particularly responsible, but they meet it with the moderator's open-mindedness. And they see that the impartial facts of every war event and trend are printed in our papers — the true story, free of emotionalism and propaganda.

A Lusty Alder

A Jay See, With Spring's Scent In His Nostrils, Tells Some Good Ones

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Never having, like Tree Member, cultivated memories, I cannot delve, as he frequently does, into the misty archives of bygone generations, so today, I will endeavor to soliloquize on the now important question as to whether the vernal season has turned the angle that has now since mid-November, A. D. 1943 separated us from an extremely bleak winter.

Judging from certain dates on a calendar of 1944, a robin, two crows and several pussy willows (not black ones) lately seen by some of your correspondents, I believe that the prognosis, at least of Spring has at last "peeked" around the corner. If this be a fact the euculent dandelion, suckers and trout in the babbling brooks will be available to those who have the $1.15 State fishing permit. Then the alewives at Warren. Then we can all eat once more.

Those of us in this section, made famous (this section not us) by B. A. Williams' historical novel "Come Spring" have probably feared better the past winter than did the families, Robbins, Adams, Hawes, Ware and others living in Union and Warren at that period.

Whether northern Knox County will ever go back to wilderness is a problem that only time can elucidate. In the Revolutionary War days this section was very heavily wooded. Pine trees are mentioned four feet in diameter where cut off at the stump. Still in East Warren, this past winter, Russell Turner of Old County Road, Rockland, reports that his choppers cut several pine of that same size and many more nearly as large. Those of us who have seen the many truckloads of oak, pine, spruce and other woods passing through streets of Rockland and Camden to their shipyards' destinations, must realize that there must be some woods left yet to select from.

A few days ago while cutting some firewood in rather a dense growth of mixed wood I cut an alder. Now the alder is generally considered a mere bush. This alder was not large. Only about three inches in diameter near the ground, but I cut it and dragged it home. Could have carried it on my shoulder, as I frequently do, not too heavy wood.

Before sawing it into stovewood lengths (about 16 inches), I insert the words in parenthesis to refute the assertions made by several of my neighbors, that I drag my long wood to the kitchen window, pull end of said stick through window, and thence into door of stove, burn off end and then feed it ahead another length, and so on. This is not a fact. The window is in the wrong side of kitchen as stove now sets and stove is too heavy for me to turn; also some sticks would on account of crooks require too much turning and twisting to feed them properly. It is by far much better to be on good terms with the neighbors' children, and let them enjoy the privilege of using a saw which they can be deceived into the belief is sharp enough to cut hot butter.

Well, I started in to tell about that alder "bush." I measured the length of it up to where I cut it off at the top as far as it was large enough for firewood.

And it measured 32 feet and 6

Marshall of Rockland; M. and M. board committee, Mr. and Mrs. Adin Hopkins of Camden; member of the state ordination committee, Rev. C. A. Marshall of Rockland; Rev. J. C. MacDonald of Rockland.

Other officers in the Women's Missionary society are these: Vice president, Mrs. Lauris Whitman of Islesboro; secretary, Mrs. Lucy Silley of Thomaston; treasurer, Mrs. Isabel Heald of West Rockport. Committee chairmen also chosen for the coming year are: devotional, Mrs. Minnie Newbert of Thomaston; White Cross, Mrs. Mabel Seavey of Rockland; Christian citizenship, Mrs. Clara Emery of Rockland; Children's World Crusade, Mrs. Clifton Meservey of Warren; World Wide Guild, Miss Edna Hill of Thomaston; Royal Ambassador, Mrs. Jennie Kenniston of Warren; missionary education and literature, Mrs. Minnie Merrill of Belfast; college counselor, Mrs. Chester Wyllie of Warren. They were installed by Mrs. Grace Wyllie.

The annual sermon was delivered by the Rev. Lauris Whitman of Islesboro, his subject, "Where Do You Live?", in which he pointed out that we live on three levels, first of instinctive desire, second, by conscience and third, by grace.

Miss Edna R. Paul, missionary to Assam, Northern Burma, for the past 20 years, told of the Japanese invasion of that section and of the turning over of the missionary hospital to Gen. Stilwell. She also said that the American boys are seeing first hand what American missionaries are accomplishing in foreign lands. There also is a spirit of service among Assamese young people in training for nursing. There is a great need for more schools and hospitals in that area. Out of ten missionary fields inches years ago in that same pasture I believe I cut many as long and larger at the butt.

In the old days in Union, there seemed to be very few, if any deer. Now there are many, many moose there, a few exist here now. One has practically wintered in and near my sheep pasture. Lots of foxes now. Practically no ten in a days' hunt. Short days too. We didn't miss many shots those days.

My eyes are getting bad, but I think I can see enough now to know that it will soon "Come Spring."

A "Scrappy" Town

Splendid Work Was Done At Camden During Clean-Up Week

"Never saw so many old Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward catalogues in my life," Percy Luce, Clean-Up Week chairman referring to the paper salvage collection which was carried on in connection with clean-up of inflammable rubbish by the town trucks last week. "And I've never seen a more whole-hearted response from so many household in turning waste paper and preparing it, properly tied, in bundles. Some who didn't have available cord used carpet rags to tie the bundles, and they were all done up in fine shape to handle. The tin cans were almost all properly cleaned and flattened also, and packed in cartons.

While complete figures are not yet available on the totals of paper and tin cans collected, Charles Lord chairman says the drive was a great success in every way. Credit is due to so many people that it is difficult to single out any one individual mention. The co-operation of the town crews and trucks, of course made it possible. Fred Irish, at the Elm street School, and Francis McGrath at the Knowlton Street School, have put in a great deal of time helping the school children and teachers in the paper and tin can salvage collections.

Chairman Lord has been informed that every 1,500 pounds of paper salvaged is equal to a cord of pulpwood at the paper mills. Two-thirds of all paper consumed in every Maine community must be recovered if 1944 requirements are to be met, the State Salvage Commission has also informed him. Shortage of waste paper at the mills is growing increasingly acute. In fact it is so serious that mill trucks are coming to the schools to pick up all salvaged paper and take it direct to the Maine paper mills, with war contracts.

Mr. Lord urged the continued saving of all waste paper and tin cans, and said that these can be brought to the school buildings at any time.

Camden housewives are turning in large amounts of waste household fats to the local meat markets, Bishop's Market, Butterfield's Market, Carleton-French, Goodwin's and R. B. Hopkins. Grocers report that some fats are brought in glass jars, which cannot be accepted by the rendering companies. All waste fats should be in wide mouth tin cans. It is not necessary to have a cover on the can. Camden grocers will also appreciate having these turned in on any week days except Friday or Saturday, which are their busiest days.

The report on industrial salvage for Camden shows that in April the Camden Shipbuilding & Marine Railways Co., turned in 30,790 pounds of scrap iron, and the Knox Mill 732 pounds of waste wool.

Y.P.F. will meet at 8.

Boy Scouts will be on the streets selling Memorial Poppies of the American Legion and Auxiliary Saturday. These Memorial Day bowers have been sold for 24 years. Veterans and their dependents benefit from the sale. Citizens are asked to observe the day by wearing a memorial poppy, in honor of the men who died in the Battles of World War I and World War II. Every little bit helps.

Pvt. Leslie D. Ames, who is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., is passing a furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ames.

Robert Kennedy, U.S. Navy is passing an 11 day leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Kennedy.

Camden Wins and Loses

At its first game away from home the Camden nine lost its second game of the season 7-2 to Lincoln Academy, Johnston pitched for Lincoln striking out nine batters and walking two. Bryant started for Camden but was relieved in the third by Burkett because of a sore pitching arm. Burkett allowed only one run in five innings. Six batters were fanned by Burkett and Bryant and six walks were given up. Lincoln Johnston led the attack for the victors with two walks and two singles in four trips.

Returning to its home field the Camden nine outscored the Thomaston team 8-6 to win an exciting ball game, and bring the first defeat of the season to Thomaston. Thomaston tallied one run and Camden picked up two in the first frame. Thomaston picked up one more run in the second, but Camden tallied two to take a 4-2 lead. Thomaston rallied in the fourth to tie it up 4-4 and went ahead 6-4 in the fifth.

Camden, in turn rallied in the sixth to tie it up again at 6-6. Thomaston was unable to score again but Camden picked up two runs in the eighth to win 8-6.

Bryant started the rally by walking and Knight also walked. They were pushed to second and third by Leonard's grounder to the pitcher, while True was batting, Bryant stole home to break the tie and Knight scored on an error by the catcher to give Camden the lead.

Bryant put the top end of the Thomaston batting order down 1-2-3 in the first of the ninth to end the ball game.

Bryant fanned six batters and yielded two walks, while Kangas and Kelley fanned nine and walked four. Bryant got 3 out of 4 at the plate for Camden, and Kelley got a single, a double and triple in three trips.

CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

A Distinguished Baptist Minister

In writing this article the writer is profoundly moved by the impending resignation of his beloved pastor Rev. William H. Jones, D. D. Twenty-one years ago, this young and vigorous pastor came East from Chicago to assume the pastorate of great Baptist Church, known as the Immanuel Baptist Church of Portland. This church was formed by a merger of the First great Baptist Church, known as the Plymouth Church and the Free Street Baptist Church. Both of these old churches had a glorious history.

Neither Dr. Jones nor any of his members, at that time, could possibly have envisioned the Mighty Adventure of Faith into which, under his leadership, we were to embark. God with us, we were led by a series of unforeseen circumstances until, step by step, the Immanuel Church, costing approximately $350,000 lifts its great tower into the sky line of Portland. Absolute is my faith, that God led its leaders and the congregation in every phase of its development.

Today it is practically without debt and with trust funds of approximately $100,000 and courage that faces the future unafraid to do His will, but it is not of the Church but of the Man I write today. I told my pastor that I could not think of Immanuel without him. He has been in it and through it all. Of course, we shall have to do that, because it was not built for one generation but many.

Coming of a family of ministers, who constantly worked with ministers of every faith, it has been my lot to have known and heard many, but in his pulpit I have never seen Dr. Jones, surpassed. Nothing ever disturbed his serene pulse; always courteous, he was master of every circumstance. His sermons profoundly thoughtful, were of exceptionally high order. My one hope is, when the parting time comes, that he can truthfully say that I have been helpful to him in his 21 years of ministering to me. He is a good minister of Jesus Christ, to the State, and to Portland.
